In northern parts of North America, the winter period seems most appropriate in this respect. I don’t think there are any laws that can stop them.